Editor, San Coast Echo: To the people and town of Bay St. Louis, Miss. You had BETTER wake up! Your town is doed and the people are dying. R is time of year for Joy and Goodwill but people here are so self contered on themselves that they have no time to look around and see people who are less fortunate and in need. I am a stranger here and have been here for 4 weeks and not a friendly face have I met. People around this town can't see need in other people. They are blinded by greed, I have not asked for charity, all I have asked for is work and money to feed my wife and mysair. I have heard of Southern hospitality all my life, now I see what they mean.

My wife and myself were traveling to New Orleans when my car broke down and had to sall it for rent and food. I tried to find a job but couldn't find any. It is Dec. 25, the day our Lord was born and a day for Joy but not for me. Today we will eat the last of our food. But people don't care. August 17, 1969 Camille came through Bay St. Louis to varn people but they heed not

Social Security Information

A wife whose husband is younger than she is may run the risk of delaying her entitlement under Medicare. Commenting about this today, Thebdore F. Robinson, districtinanager of the Gulfport socialisecurity office said this simundon concerns a wife who has rever worked under social security or who does not have enough work credits of her, own to qualify for Medicare. If the is nearing her 65th birthday and if her husband is at Bast, 62 years old, it is possible for the wife to be enrolled now for Medicare protection on his record. Mr. Robinson explained that this is true, even though the husband is still working and not even thinking of regiring

Bully On a Bus

Bus driver Hawkins noticed that one of his passengers, obviously drunk, was getting belligerent toward a young woman. Hoping things would calm down, Hawkins did not interfere.

But things did not calm down. On the contrary, the man climaxed his outburst by giving the woman a vicious kick in the the bus.

As a rule, a bus driver has the duty to do some basic policing of his vehicle. When one passenger menaces another, the driver cannot just take refuge in the role of a neutral bystander.

In fact, he may have to take affirmative action not only against grown-up bullies but also against youthful rascals. In another case several teenagers, armed with rubber bands, began firing paper clips around the interior of their school bus.

Again, the driver followed a hands-off policy. But when a girl was struck in the eye and injured, the bus company was held liable in court. The judge said the driver had an affirmative duty to halt this dangerous game.

Nevertheless, since he is not really a policeman, he does not have to go out of his way to search for trouble. Thus: An intoxicated passenged jabbed a large pin into another man's hip. The indignant victim later demanded damages from the bus company, pointing out that his attacker had been quarreisome and profane even before thrusting the pin. But it also appeared that the fellow had been sitting far back in the bus, and that the driver had simply not been aware of his misbehavior. Accordingly, the court found no grounds for placing blame upon the driver.

"His primary duty," said the judge, "is to give his full attention to the operation of the bus. If he concentrates upon this allimportant duty, he cannot give offention to the actions of the passengers unless so unusual as
